

Assignment 2: Signifiers and Mapping

My revised prototype now has an arrow-like shape that has a tab that can fold into the circle but can be used to grab from the outside of the circle for the user to get a good grip to pull it. This new addition of the tab affords holding and pulling with a good grip. The signifier is the large red arrow that points in which direction the tab should be pulled. And the mapping is that the tab is hanging off the edge allowing for the user to pull it in the direction necessary with ease.
